Cooperative Clearance Sale by City Merchants

Kingston Uptown Merchants' Association Decides on One Big Sale, Beginning January 12 and Ending January 22—Sale Will Benefit Everyone Who Wishes to Lay In Supplies For Present and Future Needs.

Instead of having $7 varieties of happy-go-lucky, go-as-you-please clearance sales on different dates, necessitating as many trips to Kingston in order to reap the benefits of clearance sale prices, the Kingston Uptown Merchants' Association has arranged to hold one big cooperative clearance sale on the same dates for all.

This sale, the first of its kind in this city, will be known as the Kingston Uptown Merchants' Cooperative Clearance Sale and practically every merchant will participate in it. The sale will begin on January 12 and continue for 10 days, ending on January 22.

Out of season and left over goods of every variety and line will be gone over, arranged, priced and offered for sale on this occasion at prices that will make it well worth while for anyone to travel many miles in order to come to Kingston and lay in a supply for present and future needs. Due to the cooperative arrangement for holding all the sales on the same dates, one trip to Kingston will cover purchases of any and all lines of goods, which will be an added economy for the customer and will give purchasers in the territory outside the city the same opportunity of taking advantage of clearance sale prices as has always been enjoyed by residents.

Will Not Poison People in Order To Enforce Law

Secretary Mellon Announces Determination to Eliminate the Use of Poisons as Denaturants—Four Per Cent of Wood Alcohol Will Remain.

Washington, Dec. 30 (AP)—On the theory that more effective prohibition enforcement is bound to drive drinkers to the use of industrial alcohol, Secretary Mellon announced a determination today to eliminate the use of poisons as denaturants.

The secretary's attitude, made known today at the treasury is that he does not conceive it as a duty of the government to permit poisoning of citizens in order to enforce the law.

He expects government chemists soon will be able to denature alcohol so that it will be too distasteful to drink rather than too poisonous.

When the new government denaturing formula goes into effect January 1, certain poisonous substances previously included in it will be eliminated.

The four per cent of wood alcohol provided for in the formula will remain, however, as Mr. Mellon does not think that percentage injurious. Under the old formula two per cent of wood alcohol is used.

The decision not to use poisons in dangerous quantities is based on a conviction on the part of Secretary Mellon that complete prohibition enforcement is impossible. He thinks that as enforcement grows stronger, bootleggers and drinkers will be driven to bad alcohol and other substitutes. He is not willing that the government should poison these substitutes to enforce the law and believes other concoctions can be placed in them to prevent their use.

Improved prohibition enforcement under the direction of Assistant Secretary Andrews is believed by Mr. Mellon to have resulted in the use of industrial alcohol by bootleggers and in the consequent poisoning of some drinkers. He does not believe, however, that any proportion of the numerous holiday alcoholic deaths resulted from use of poison alcohol, and believes excessive drinking was the more likely cause.

The secretary declared today that smuggling both along the coast and on the Canadian border has been greatly diminished, if not almost eliminated. Domestic liquor "leaks" also have been stopped to a great degree, he said, through the concentration in fewer distilleries of the medicinal liquor stock. As a result bootleggers, he understands, are turning to use of industrial alcohol.

Agents Seize Beer At Clair's Place

Take Samples at Chambers Street Business Place and Deposit Remainder at Police Headquarters—Frank Leacraft Arraigned Before Commissioner Connelly.

Jack Clair was arrested Wednesday afternoon when Federal agents descended on his place of business on Chambers street armed with search warrants. Clair was charged with having in his possession "high power beer." Twenty-six cases of beer were seized, and after taking samples of the stuff the agents sealed the remainder in burlap bags and deposited it in the detention room at police headquarters for future removal.

Later Clair was arraigned before United States Commissioner A. C. Connelly where he waived examination to appear before the Federal grand jury. He was released in $500 bail.

Frank Leacraft, whose place of business, Hollywood Inn, Riffon, federal agents seized two stills and a quantity of alleged apple whiskey on Tuesday, was arraigned this morning before U. S. Commissioner Connelly. At the time of the raid the agents armed with search warrants alleged they found the stills in operation. They placed under arrest Dewitt Freer who appeared to be in charge. He was held under $300 bail Wednesday afternoon for appearance later. Leacraft demanded an examination and gave bail in the sum of $500 for appearance before Mr. Connelly on January 18 when Freer will also appear.

ASH CAN FIRE IN CELLAR OF EAST CHESTER ST. HOUSE

Waste paper in an ash can in the cellar of the two family house at No. 25 East Chester street became ignited Wednesday evening about 6 o'clock causing an alarm of fire to be turned in from Box 54. The fire was caused by an accumulation of coal gas in the furnace which exploded in a back draft. There was no damage. Donald Morris, resident on the first floor and Charles Fox on the second floor of the house.

George Spill Injured in Fall

George Spill of 141 Hunter street, formerly a popular municipal employee, quite severely injured his leg Wednesday when a ladder on which he was standing fell to the ground. Mr. Spill was shoveling the snow from the roof of his home and evidently the base of the ladder was resting on some ice which caused it to slip. The injured man is at the hospital for his leg and is expected to be home in a few days.

Importance of Supervisors in Government

Two Speakers Stress Character and Importance of County Legislators at Supervisors' Association Banquet—Alfred D. Van Buren Talks About Prohibition Enforcement.

Following the adjourning of the board of supervisors Wednesday evening the annual banquet of the Supervisors' Association of Ulster County was held at the Hotel Stuyvesant with some 200 members and guests present. County Clerk John H. Baxe of West Hurley, member of the committee on arrangements, welcomed the guests as they arrived and until the turkey dinner was ready to be served an informal reception was held in the lobby of the hotel.

Ulster county turkey dinner was served with all appropriate trimmings and every want of the diners was well attended to by Manager C. W. Winne, of the hotel.

At the conclusion of the dinner, when cigars were lighted, Roscoe V. Ellsworth, of the town of Esopus, president of the association, acting as toastmaster, arose and extended a formal welcome to the guests. He spoke of the excellence of the idea of the association formed among supervisors and ex-supervisors which brought men from all sections of the county together once each year to eat, talk and renew friendships.

Van Buren Discusses Prohibition. Mr. Ellsworth then introduced Alfred D. Van Buren, formerly a prominent lawyer of this city and later an official of the legal department of the prohibition enforcement bureau at Washington, and now a practicing lawyer in New York city.

Mr. Van Buren after expressing his pleasure at being present entered into a discussion of the most talked of topic of the day, prohibition enforcement. Mr. Van Buren was very emphatic in his statement that the law could be enforced. He also stated that since the enforcement act had been written into the law of the country every citizen should respect the law. He attacked the present method of "denaturing" alcohol by putting poison in it and then went on to tell in most interesting manner how the prohibition law was intended to function. He expressed his belief that there was no intention on the part of the present Congress to adjust or change the law.

States Should Fix Alcoholic Content. He said that after a close contact with the law for some time he believed there was a solution for the matter. This solution he stated was by delegating to each state the right to define what each individual state believed was intoxicating liquor and to allow each state to pass laws permitting the manufacture and sale of such liquor and beverages as the people of the state demanded. None of this liquor should be allowed to be drunk on the premises, thus eliminating the old saloon and preventing the re-opening of drinking places. The Federal enforcement men could then devote their time to preventing the transportation of liquor of one state to another where the alcoholic content had been made illegal by the other state.

By this solution each state would be responsible for its own acts and Congress would not be called to interfere with the liberties of individual states.

High Standard of Supervisors. William G. Merritt was next introduced and spoke in a very entertaining manner, injecting several stories which were entirely new to men present. He spoke in a more serious vein of the business capacity of the supervisors and spoke of the high standard of men whom the various towns selected and sent to make up the board.

Foundation of Government. State Treasurer Lewis H. Pounds was the last speaker of the evening. Mr. Pounds was introduced not as the first man to fill the position but as the first since he will retire from office with the new year and under the reorganization plan no successor has been elected.

Mr. Pounds congratulated the county on the calibre of the men chosen to represent the various towns and explained that the board of supervisors was the foundation of the government in the state. He explained how the supervisor was brought into being before there was a state government and how the supervisor was selected to represent a section where some form of government was necessary. He said that changes in county government should be made with great caution. The cry for reform in county government was not a sound one and the one who knew least of the way county government was conducted was the one loudest in their cry for a change.

Reorganization Plan a Mistake

Mr. Pounds stated that he was not in accord with the reorganization plan in the state government and declared that a mistake had been made in predicting that when the new plan went into effect the first of the year there would be confusion since the county officials were not in entire accord.

The speaker expressed his pleasure in having met Judge A. T. Clearwater during his visit to Kingston and paid a fine tribute to the judge, referring to his standing in his home community as well as all over the state.

Letters of praise were read from several of the members who were unable to be present at the dinner. Judge J. Patten of Marlborough, a former

Lazarus Block at Saugerties Has Serious Fire

Hyman Clothing Store and Schaffer Grocery Heavily Damaged Wednesday Evening—Tenants on Upper Floors Ordered Out—Origin or Total Damage Unknown.

Fire was discovered shortly before 8 o'clock Wednesday evening in the Lazarus block, Partition street, Saugerties, by Augustus Brown who was passing. He observed the reflection of the fire at the rear of the Hyman clothing store and immediately turned in an alarm and the fire department was quick in responding.

When first discovered the fire was burning briskly at the rear of the store and as soon as the firemen arrived they stretched several lines of hose and by most efficient work prevented the fire from spreading to adjoining buildings. The fire was confined to the first floor of the building where it originated but the two upper floors of the building which were occupied as residences were considerably damaged by smoke.

The Lazarus building is occupied on the ground floor by two stores, that of Mrs. Hyman who conducts the men's clothing store formerly conducted by her husband, and the Schaffer grocery store. The two upper floors, now fitted out as apartments, were all occupied. One of the floors was formerly used by the Knights of Pythias as lodge rooms.

Firemen Work Quickly. When the firemen arrived the flames were making rapid headway toward the front of the building and only by quick work were they able to drive them back and finally extinguish the fire. The fire was not out until some damage had been done to the second floor where the flames broke through at the rear and communicated to the second floor. However, the damage by fire was slight outside the store in which it originated.

Tenants on the two upper floors were ordered to leave the premises by the police when they believed that the building was doomed.

Origin of Fire Unknown. How the fire started is not known. The store which contained a large stock of merchandise was closed for the day about 6:30 o'clock and at that time there was no evidence of fire. The fire did not originate in the vicinity of the heater and how it started remains a mystery.

The large stock in the store was considerably damaged by fire and the remainder was damaged by smoke and water which the firemen were compelled to use in quenching the fire.

No Estimate of Damage. No estimate of the damage can be given until the stock is inventoried but it will amount to several thousand dollars, only partially covered by insurance.

The rear of the store was practically gutted by the flames and there is considerable damage to the building in addition to the stock damage.

This is the first fire of a serious nature which has visited the village of Saugerties in some time and it attracted a large crowd of people.

Adjoining buildings which are of brick construction were not damaged.

Chicago Has New Type of Criminal

Chicago, Dec. 30 (AP)—Chicago's "Cat" robber, who the police believe, has a Jekyll and Hyde personality took a night off last night.

At any rate he eluded some 200 policemen rushed with shoot to kill orders into the Logan Square district, which he terrorized Tuesday night in the same manner he has terrorized other northside districts for months by accosting and robbing unescorted women.

In addition automobiles filled with armed and determined citizens, co-operating with the police, found the district where the marauder might be expected to pounce upon his next victim. Fifteen young women, armed especially by the police to parade the streets as bait for the robber, walked in vain. Many figures lurked in dark alleys, but they were all policemen or vigilantes.

Captain John Stige, deputy chief of detectives, believes a new type of criminal has appeared in Chicago in this robber of women. He also is convinced that it is one man, not a series of them. These hundred suspects have been taken recently, but no one has been taken to identify the wild cat among them.

Industrial Home Kiddles Guests of Governor Clinton

Hotel Management Provides Amusement of Pleasure for Children Who Enjoy Santa Claus, Christmas Tree and Gifts, Elevator Ride and Other Features.

Twenty-four children from the Industrial Home were entertained at the Governor Clinton Hotel Wednesday afternoon by the management of the hotel. Herbert Carl, president of the Kingston Community Hotel Company, and George H. Wartman, manager of the hotel, acted as hosts to the little folks who were conveyed to and from the home in one of the Van Gonsle Brothers' busses.

The little guests arrived at the hotel at 3 o'clock and were served in the main lobby of the hotel at a table which had been erected about the Christmas tree. Manager Wartman was here, there and everywhere seeing that the children were cared for, while a corps of waitresses served ice cream, cake, cocoa and fruit to each of the guests. The ice cream served in Santa Claus forms caused great merriment on the part of the little folks who apparently enjoyed every minute of the visit. The Christmas tree was admired by the children and many unusual childish remarks were passed during the serving of the refreshments.

When the refreshments had been disposed of Manager Wartman acted as Santa Claus and presented each of the children with a handkerchief. The girls were given pretty little "ladies" handkerchiefs while the boys received real "men's" handkerchiefs.

Good Behavior Commended.

The unusually good behavior of the little folks during their stay at the hotel was commented upon by many who passed through the lobby and spoke exceedingly well for the discipline maintained at the home by the matron and attendants.

The twenty-four boys and girls who were entertained at the Governor Clinton Hotel, however, are not the entire population of the Industrial Home. There were nine babies too small to participate in the good time, still at the home and two other larger children who were ill.

While the children were being served in the main lobby, Mrs. Philip Elting, as president of the board of directors of the home, gave a tea to the matrons and other members of the board in the porch dining room off the main lobby.

It had been arranged to have an entertainment at the affair but owing to illness the entertainer was unable to be present, but apparently the children enjoyed themselves just as well in looking around the hotel and listening to the radio concert which Manager Wartman provided.

Elevator Provided Real Thrill.

Following the serving of the refreshments President Carl took the children in charge and after weighing each child took them on a tour of inspection of the hotel and then provided perhaps the greatest thrill of the afternoon when he invited everyone to ride to the top of the hotel in the elevator. As the car door closed and the cage started up there was a most unusual combination of laughter, shouts and talking as the boys and girls enjoyed in most cases their first ride on an elevator. The ride provided conversation for the remainder of their stay and they were still talking of their "thrill" when they departed for home, each provided with an orange to take with them.

Not only did the Governor Clinton management entertain, but the children in turn did their part. The children, boys and girls, together, sang several Christmas songs which they had been taught for their own Christmas entertainment at the home. Several of them recited and even to some of the very smallest provided entertainment. The careful instruction received at the home was reflected in the manner in which the little folks responded when called upon to sing or recite.

Part of Hotel Policy.

Manager Wartman had planned to give his Christmas party at the Governor Clinton Hotel the day before Christmas but the children were so well provided for at that time that it was deemed best to wait a few days and extend the good time of the children over a longer period so the party was arranged for Wednesday afternoon.

It is the policy of the managers of the American Hotel Corporation in each city where they have a hotel to seek out some similar worthy cause and entertain some group of little folks during the Christmas holidays. This has been done in practically all of the cities where there are American Hotel Corporation houses, and Manager Wartman selected the Industrial Home here.

That the children enjoyed their stay at the Governor Clinton was evidenced by the numerous expressions of pleasure which were heard as the little folks departed. Many stopped to shake hands and thank Mr. Carl and Mr. Wartman for the "good time" and with a happy shout and much chatter they boarded their bus for the return home.

J. Charles Snyder of Kingston Resigns to Become Election Commissioner—Succeeded by Edward M. Stanbrough—Petition Affecting Highways Recalled—Tax Department Decision Imperative.

The present bridge is of insufficient width to accommodate present day traffic and it is proposed to build a new bridge. Filed.

Old Fashioned Feast for Farmers

Annual Meeting of New York State Agricultural Society At Albany Promises to Have Many New Features—All Farm Organizations Invited.

A real old fashioned feast, such as grandmothers served, with all of the old fashioned dishes steaming on the table, with entertainment and an intellectual feast thrown in, bids fair to make the ninety-fifth annual meeting of the New York State Agricultural Society in Albany January 19 and 20 an agricultural event of importance.

The Society will hold its annual meeting in the Capitol in Albany and will elect officers. Commissioner Berne A. Pyrk of the Department of Farms and Markets has been asked to preside. The officers of the society now are: President, E. R. Eastman, of the American Agricultural Society of New York; treasurer, J. C. Willis, of Albany; secretary, Charles H. Baldwin, of Albany. Mr. Baldwin, who is active in making arrangements for the dinner, desires to make a most emphatic appeal to all who are interested in agriculture to attend this dinner of the society, the mother agricultural organization of all those who have sprung up as a result of specialized farming. Mr. Baldwin urges that all specialized groups be represented at the meeting of the society and at the old fashioned farm dinner at the Ten Eyck Hotel on the evening of January 19. He has announced that if those who are preparing to come will write the New York State Agricultural Society, Albany, N. Y., it will be of great aid in carrying out the plans for the dinner.

Specialized Farming. It is pointed out that in 1822 when the society was organized, agriculture was general and each farm self-sustaining, but that as population increased and transportation developed, specialized farming became the vogue, and various agencies and associations have come into existence which work in the interest of particular groups. It is the desire of the officers of the society that all of these groups be represented at the meeting of the State Agricultural Society, in line with the effort to make this one of the banner meetings in the history of the organization. The breeders, dairymen, and all clubs and farm organizations are requested by the officers of the society to take up definite plans for a representation at the meeting in Albany.

Many to Attend. Officers declare the New York State Agricultural Society is planning for a home coming on the evening of January 19, and is arranging a program which should be an attraction to those interested in agriculture, and may have already signified their intention to attend.

Governor and Farmland. Governor Alfred E. Smith will be one of the guests of honor and will make an address. Livingston Farrand, president of Cornell University, Ithaca, is scheduled to speak. Calvin Dater of Troy, the 33-year-old baritone, well-known to radio audiences, will sing, and an old fashioned singing school will be conducted by "Daddy" Pease, well-known community song leader of western New York and Farm Bureau agent of Ontario county. Bob Adams will contribute to the entertainment with his rude rural rhymes. A headliner on the program is John McDermott of Cortland, the well-known pioneer fiddler, who will entertain with some of the old time selections; and the program will close with old-fashioned square dances, which will be "called off" by Mr. McDermott in his own original style and in the manner of half a century ago.

A statement by officers of the society follows: "The State Agricultural Society has watched various specialized groups, representing different branches of farming develop and has continued since its organization to work generally in behalf of agriculture without any interference with the separate and distinct associations. It now asks that these associations get together in a meeting at which all will be represented on this, the 95th anniversary, to the end that New York State's agriculture which, in spite of the invasion of manufacturing, is still a large and important enterprise in this state, may continue to have the support it deserves."

The Verdict
The accused had been charged with murder in the first degree, and "guilty" was the verdict rendered. However, the fellow heard nothing for his entire attention was riveted upon the odd-looking collar that adorned the neck of the juror with the red mustache.

What is going to happen at the Old Polish School Hall, January 3, 1927? Watch for answer Monday afternoon's Freeman.

Skirt Below Knee; Waistline Higher

Showings for Resort Wear Will Influence Modes Season Ahead.

Midseason modes reflect the skirt that drops two or three inches below the knee, observes a fashion correspondent in the Kansas City Star. These midseason showings, which are primarily for resort wear, will influence the modes of the season ahead. The silhouette sponsored is short and slim and the waistline averages the highest seen thus far in the midseason showings, although it is not yet raised quite to normal position. Many bolero treatments are sponsored in this collection, appearing in coats as well as in dresses, often accompanied by a corresponding deep, flat tier treatment on the skirt.

The skirt treatment noted in dresses, especially in taffeta models, consists of covering them entirely with inch-wide plaited ruffles.

An interesting feature of the collection is suits with short jackets, accompanied by blouses of tub silk or crepe which are continued beneath the waistline under wrapped skirts as short culottes.

Many plain black dresses are accompanied by hip-length or three-quarter length straight coats in a light color, such as black dresses with coats of beige crepe or of green chiffon.

Black with pink is a combination dressed by Jenny in both day and evening types. Two dinner gowns, labeled "Daring" and "Careless," shown together, are of black satin with pink yokes and pink facings to loose panels developed in two different interpretations.

The long-sleeved dinner gown is a fashion interest in this collection, appearing in dresses of black lace.

The vogue of gay colorings in interesting combinations is indicated in the collection of sports clothes which Marthe Regnier presents for midseason.

A striking example of these color combinations is a model which combines crepe in an ashy turquoise shade with gray camel's hair jersey. In another costume apricot-colored kasha is used with green jersey.

Despite this combining of colors Marthe Regnier's collection is more simple than those shown in previous seasons. Wearable sports costumes are accented in both one and two-piece models, both types frequently combining a bloused bodice with a plaited skirt.

The models which Bishop presents for midseason are for the most part afternoon and evening types. The silhouette shows the sophisticated lines characteristic of this house with unhemmed hems accented.

Fabric combinations are much in evidence, appearing in such novel versions as a chiffon bodice worn with a skirt, half crepe combined with silk, and combinations of velvet with silk.

An interesting feature of the Mary Whitzky models presented for midseason is the emphasis placed on Royal's novelty cottons in the new sport clothes shown.

These cottons sometimes are combined with silk or woolen fabrics, as a costume which has a jumper of velvety sponge banded in kasha, and kasha skirt.

Besides appearing in these fabric combinations, the novelty cottons are used for entire dresses, several being of dark cotton velvets in shades of red.

Black and White Used for This Chic Costume

Black and white costume was only one of the many styles shown at the showings. The showings are being held at the grand apartment.

Coultage Arrives Home. Washington, Dec. 30 (AP).—President and Mrs. Coultage arrived home early today from Everett, N. J., where the President spent last night at the Battle of Trenton celebration, and were driven immediately to the White House.

Greatest Flood in History of Nashville Spread Over Large Area, Driving at Least 4,000 People From Their Homes.

Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 30 (AP).—The greatest flood since the white man came to what is now known as Nashville, was spread over the city today as the Cumberland river stood at a stage of 57.4 feet.

The river was expected to continue its rise for the next day or two. The rainfall here is unprecedented and in its upper reaches in Kentucky, covered approximately 200 city blocks today.

Property damage was estimated at $200,000 and the mighty lake that spread out from the river bed covered a large area of the manufacturing and warehouse district and the homes of at least 4,000 persons who dwelt in the low part of the town.

No rain has been reported to the local weather bureau from over the Cumberland's watershed since noon Tuesday and fair weather for the entire state was the forecast today.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS

There in the center of the room stood the tree. What a handsome tree it was. And there were the presents all around it and hanging from the branches.

Every member of the family received presents and there were blocks and trains and toys and dolls and animals made of cloth and animals made of candy.

Later in the day when a tall person came into the room they had to take long strides to walk over the toys so as not to step on anything, and the children had to call out warnings to them to look and see that far below them the floor was covered with Christmas presents.

But the best of all was when they were taking the presents from the tree in the first place.

The children went to Christmas-tree parties and it was nice to see what was in any package they might receive off the tree, one never knew what one was going to get and it was a nice, hopeful, expectant time.

But the home Christmas tree was the best of all, for that was the tree which Santa had thought about and looked after for them.

Their daddy lifted the presents down from the topmost branches.

Each member of the family opened a present in turn. Then each had a chance to see what the other got, but sometimes things got so exciting that they opened several at a time, and everyone was looking at their own.

Of course, after it was all over, after all the presents had been brought down from the tree, they all looked over the presents each other had got and later in the day they saw the presents more thoroughly.

Well, that afternoon they had a tea party and had some of their friends.

They Gave Him a Beautiful Bone.

and there were little presents left on the tree for their friends.

But an uninvited guest came to the party. The uninvited guest was a dog, and he was standing outside the door, looking very cold.

It was a freezing cold day out, and the temperature was going steadily down.

The dog had stopped, seeing that a well-lit house and a cheerful-looking house had every look as though it might give him warmth and welcome for a while.

The dog's home was far out in the country and the dog had been for a long run through the snow.

They let him come in and he got so beautifully warm and they gave him good things to eat, and then before he went home they gave him a beautiful bone and tied a red ribbon to his collar.

So that he, too, had a Christmas party and a Christmas present.

It was so nice to receive a cordial welcome when you weren't even invited.

So that every one that day in that house was very, very happy, even the cold, wandering dog, the uninvited guest.

Wanted Ice Cream Hash

At the last moment some of our company could not come, so it was found that later in the day we had a small surplus of ice cream that even the children could not get away with. Our dear neighbors were not at home, either, so I said, "Well, there is not much and we might as well throw it out, as it won't do any good to keep it."

Robert seemed to think it was a terrible thing to waste ice cream for he said solemnly, "Oh, mother, couldn't we save it to make ice cream hash out of it?"

Not Even a Hair Cut

Protect Records, Urges Historian

State Historian Flick Urges Erection of Building at Albany to House State Records—Calls Attention to Carelessness Resulting in Destruction.

Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 30 (AP)—Erection at Albany of a state archives building to house state records was advocated by Dr. Alexander C. Flick, state historian, in an address before the American Historical Association here today.

Dr. Flick also urged the enactment of more stringent laws to insure preservation of both state and local records, and that communities be required to provide fireproof buildings with adequate vaults to hold all public papers.

The speaker praised existing statutes for the protection of public records, but said conditions still were far from ideal and that scarcely a political subdivision in New York state had its records intact. He recalled the capitol fire of 1911 as an instance of the danger involved, and suggested that neglect often caused loss of important documents.

"The state should make it mandatory on communities to provide fireproof buildings with adequate vaults to hold public records," said Dr. Flick. "The jurisdiction of the state supervisor of public records should be extended to include state departments. Durable paper and ink should be required for all records, local and state. Somehow the tenure of local clerks who are competent should be lengthened. A state archive building should be erected at the capitol to house the state records, and possible the older records as well, at least until regional record halls are built to care for community needs.

Many Records Lost.

"The public records of New York reveal the political, economic and social life of the local communities, and of the commonwealth. They are the property of the people and invaluable in explaining its history. Yet it was not until after the great fire in 1911 in the state capitol, which destroyed 300,000 manuscripts and 500,000 books, that the state took any legal steps to protect its public records. As a result of this indifference and neglect, the state, counties, cities, villages and towns have lost innumerable records of inestimable value through fire, flood, mildew, mice and rats and theft.

"Scarcely a political division has its records intact. The public record law of 1911 created a state supervisor of records and charged him with the duty of preserving and protecting local public records. A public record was defined by law, and local officials were required to provide fireproof vaults for their records. Two years later the office of superior of records and state historian were combined in the division of archives and history, which was placed in the department of education.

"For the past 15 years the supervisor of public records has devoted all his time to the task of persuading local officials and communities to appreciate the legal, financial, economic and social value of their records; to provide adequate protection against loss by fire, water, theft and vermin; and to encourage local historians to print the earliest records so that their preservation is assured.

Work of Protecting Records.

"As a result of these endeavors carried on for a decade and a half, hundreds of safes have been purchased, many vaults have been provided, lost records have been recovered, neglected records have been repaired and rebound and the public generally has been educated to appreciate the value of their records.

"The 1,200 historians are required under the law to make inventories of the local records, to report the results of their investigations to the state historian, and to induce local officials to give adequate protection to the records. These local historians have rendered excellent service and in some instances have been the means of having the older records printed.

"Local officials are forbidden by law to destroy or give away any records without having secured permission from the commissioner of education. The problem of destroying records is a vital and delicate one, and should be solved only after the most careful inspection and consideration of their future historical usefulness."

HEROINE FIGHTS BRUTE TO SAVE CHILD IN WOODS

Uses Small Hunting Ax to Down Angry Animal
Threatening Infant.

Edmonton, Alta.—A girl wife's battle with a huge black bear, her only weapon a short hunting ax, and the life of her six-month-old child at stake, is the latest story of heroism which has come out of the Fort McMurray district, in the foothills west of here.

The heroine is Julie LaSalle, pretty, seventeen-year-old half French and half Indian wife of Jules LaSalle, trapper. Accompanying her husband on a trapping expedition, with her baby alone, Indian fashion, in a birch-bark cradle over her back, Julie later hung her precious burden from a low-hanging limb of a spruce tree, while she went picking cranberries.

Falls Into Bear's Den.

Intent on her quest, the girl slipped into a cavernous hole at the foot of a giant spruce tree. Her moccasined foot touched something warm and soft, something which roared with a wild beast's rage, and two tiny bear cubs emerged from the hollow. A moment later a far more formidable figure followed them into sight—the mother bear.

Roaring and spitting, the animal mother, anxious for the safety of her cubs, advanced on the human mother, equally anxious for the safety of her babe; for within a few yards of her giant beast, the chubby papoose swung in its cradle. One sweep of the bear's huge forepaw and the babe would be fatally mangled.

Advanced on the Human Mother.

Julie snatched from her belt the pitifully tiny hunting ax which hung there and hurled herself upon the advancing whirlwind of death. The bear's huge paw whizzed past her face, tearing out a wisp of black hair, but missing the flesh by a fraction of an inch.

Kills the Bear.

Then, with a lightning like blow, the girl-mother struck with every ounce of her strength. The ax bit deep into the skull of the bear, and the huge bulk lurched to the ground, within a foot of the papoose's cradle. Jules, wide-eyed with terror, rifle on hip, emerged from the brush nearby just in time to receive the limp form of his wife, as she collapsed, unconscious, into his arms.

Father Finds Family

Missing Twenty Years

Eureka, Calif.—George Brooks of Leletta, near here, has been reunited with his family of five after losing all trace of them in the San Francisco earthquake and fire in 1906.

Having given up hope of ever again seeing his family, he moved to Humboldt county. Last month he made his first visit to San Francisco since 1906 and, looking through a telephone directory, came across the name of his eldest son, Roy Milton Brooks. That evening at dinner father and son were reunited. The next day they drove to Redwood City, where his younger son, Wallace, with his family as well as Brooks' three daughters and their families awaited the father.

$500,000 in Old Gold

Coins Found by Woodman

Vienna.—W. T. Schork, a poor woodman in the Bohemian village of Schepchowitz, suddenly has become a millionaire. While felling trees in a forest he came across a large mass covered with Turkish inscriptions.

When the stone was removed thousands of old gold coins were found, dating from the Thirteenth and Fourteenth centuries and worth $500,000. The peasants of the neighborhood, hearing of the treasure, all started digging in the forest and cutting trees so that the police were obliged to intervene or the forest would have been destroyed.

Idaho Rancher Kills Deer With a Knife

Grangerville, Idaho.—Deer have been slaughtered with bow and arrow, run down by the motor car and led astray by man from corn whiskey, but it remained for Dave Pugh, a rancher, to set a precedent by slaying a buck with a common jack knife.

Returning from his ranch, Pugh saw a white-tail buck standing in a pool of water. The deer saw him, too, and flashed away, only to crash into a wire fence, entangling his horns. The buck leaped to earth, with the hunter on top of him. Pugh sank his jack knife into the animal's throat, and there, by creating a legend to tell to his grandchildren.

RETURN OF MODERN ARDEN IS TRAGIC

"Other Man" Kills Woman and Himself.

Leominster, Mass.—When he returned unexpectedly after a year in Florida, Constantine Lager completed an "eternal triangle" which cost his wife and the "other man" their deaths.

Upon arriving in Leominster, Lager, having learned on the day of his departure, beat on pleasantly surprising his wife.

"Who is it?" asked a voice which he recognized as that of his wife. "It is Constantine," he replied.

"Well, well, just a minute," said his wife. Lager waited several minutes, then pushed open the door and entered the kitchen. His wife stared him in silence. From another room came Don C. Clark, father of four children.

Clark produced an automatic pistol and told Lager he had better leave the house before he was killed. Lager drew his knife and told his wife he would let her choose between them while he waited outside.

Instead, Lager called a policeman, and both entered the house. As they sat, Clark shot and killed Lager's wife. He then killed himself.

Thirty Day Free Trial of Frigidaire—

Because we have real confidence in Frigidaire electric refrigeration and the benefits it will bring to you, we offer you a free test in your own home for thirty days, without obligation.

Why Is Refrigeration Necessary in Winter?

Makeshift methods of preserving foods in winter—such as the back porch, cellar and pantry—depend entirely upon natural refrigeration. The right temperature to keep foods—from 32 to 50 degrees—is found only on an average of 19 days a year in the United States. On other winter days, quick changes from freezing to thawing make it unsafe to depend on the weather to keep perishable food stuffs in perfect condition.

Frigidaire electric refrigeration supplies, on every day of the year, the cold, dry and changeless atmosphere necessary for dependable food protection—and does this without the need of your attention.

A complete independence from outside ice supply means a great deal to the housewife who is used to "keeping her eye out" for the ice-man. Frigidaire runs automatically. Foods can be perfectly preserved even while you are away from home for days.

You will enjoy the convenience of Frigidaire ice cubes and the ease of preparing delicious frozen desserts. Frigidaire is attractive in appearance—easy to keep clean—built for your convenience. Let your Christmas check be your first payment.

Frigidaire Unit Installed—Ready For Use—In Your Own Ice-Box as Low as $201.75 or a Complete Cabinet Can Be Installed for $262.50 (discount for Cash Payment.)

Small First Payment—Convenient Monthly Terms.

Buckles and Other Orna-

Ornamental Value in Paris These Days—
Belts Also Are Important.

Paris.—The sometimes unexpected appearance of a jeweled or other novelty buckle is one of the features freely discussed by those interested in style who have viewed what Paris
is showing and wearing just now.
A black or navy dress is often accented by a red gallitla buckle.
Novelty studded buckles, usually of strass or marasite, make unexpected appearances on narrow belts, otherwise inconspicuous. One finds,
however, that by the effective method of adding a belt, a gown otherwise not distinguished becomes worth turning around to see.

Crystals add their sparkle to many simple chiffon evening gowns
and are perhaps newer than pearls,
yet either of them is acceptable
when added to the side of a low girdle. Paris wears a pin on the hip instead of on the shoulder.

Yvonne Carette Designs a Simple

der Lines and Self Fabric Trimming.

Fabric Are Applied in Graduated Folds Forming a Point in the Center, and the Collar is Tied at Back with Two Long Ends. The Belt is of Bois de Rose Snaps.

Of course, the use of buckles on belts designed to accompany sports costumes seems logical, but a buckle
and a dance frock have less in common. Quite in the same spirit are the rows of tiny self-covered buttons, which some of the haute couture insist are desirable even on a dance frock.

Two-piece sports frocks are never as smart as they should be when there is no belt. Sometimes this is of leather, affording a distinct color contrast. When it is tan leather, shoes, handbags, and gloves are of the same shade. It still being regarded as smart to use two contrasting materials, or the reverse side to give contrast, the idea is further perpetuated by introducing a kid,
leather, or even metal belt.

Mother-of-pearl or bone buckles are used on the all-white costume,
although it is preferable to introduce a brilliant flash of color in the buckle, if not in the entire belt.
Red is unquestionably the preference.

FALL FOODS

Both chicken and cauliflower are such favorite foods that a combination of the two will be enjoyed.

Chicken With Cauliflower.—Cut up chicken
as for fricassees, wash,
cover with boiling water,
heat to the boiling point
and after five minutes
boiling simmer until ten-
der. Separate the cauliflower into flowerettes, cover with boiling salted water and cook until tender. Cook a dozen slices of carrot until tender. Arrange the chicken on a serving dish, the cauliflower and carrots around the chicken. Take one-fourth of a cupful of fat, cook an equal measure of flour, add salt, pepper and one cupful of chicken broth,
stir until well blended; beat the yolk
of an egg, add a teaspoonful of lemon juice and stir; pour the sauce over the chicken and vegetables and serve at once.

Tomato and Pear Salad.—Peel ripe firm tomatoes and cut into eighths, cut pears after peeling in same-sized pieces. Alternate a section of pear and tomato, making a flower-shaped design on heart leaves of lettuce.
Place a spoonful of mayonnaise in the center.

The Three P's Salad.—Take a cupful each of peas, peanuts rolled like coarse crumbs, and finely minced moderately sour pickles. Mix well and serve with mayonnaise dressing
on lettuce.

Cream Cheese Salad.—This may be made with any variety of soft cheese.
To two cream cheeses add two tablespoonfuls of cream, one pimento,
twenty-four olives and half a cupful of blanched almonds. Chop all the ingredients separately, mix all together thoroughly with a wooden spoon,
press into a mold lined with paraffin paper. When firm and chilled unmold and cut into slices. Serve on crisp heart leaves of lettuce with French dressing.

Flashes of Life
Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press.)

New York.—A solitary note will hardly be enough for a young lady's boy friend in this town tomorrow night. He would celebrate a la-made. Aspirations are as high as $10.00 for a ticket to leading shows. Cover charges in Roger Kahn's night club are $10 each and of course the upkeep of a party far exceeds the initial outlay. For instance, ginger ale will cost $3 a bottle.

Paris.—One up-to-date Cap'd's dart is a champagne bottle. Captain Albin Lemerdy, of the French Army, was struck by a bottle in a cave by Lawrence Vall, American dramatist. During the subsequent prosecution the Captain met Clothilde Vall, sister of the dramatist,
and now they are to be married.

New York.—Anybody who sees a picture of Ezra Meeker, 96, and John R. Voorhis, 97, toasting each other with some dark liquid in wine glasses, should not be deceived. It was only coffee. The pioneer of the Oregon Trail and the Grand Sachem of Tammany were snapped at a luncheon on Mr. Meeker's birthday.
And it was explained that Mr. Meeker doesn't drink, never has, and hasn't smoked for half a century.

London.—Sky-scrapers in New York remind Sir Alfred Mond of the dwellings of caverns, but he hopes the day will never come when his friends in Wall street wear bearskins and drag their stenographers by the hair.

New York.—Angus Daniel McDonald, new president of the Southern Pacific, expects that he will be kept real busy catching up with the marvelous development of a "country where one day's dreams are the next day's miracles, and the third day's commonplaces"—the west and southwest.

Cambridge, Mass.—Talk about the records of modern athletics—why,
in ancient Greece they used to pole vault over bounding leopards and turn hand springs over charging lions. Paintings of such features found at Corinth have been described to the Archaeological Institute of America by Prof. T. Leslie Shear of Princeton.

New York.—The deaf may now
"see" sound. An invention called the osmo records sound vibrations photographically. To use the device the deaf must first learn to recognize the picture of each sound.

San Francisco.—All aboard for Chico, Calif. girls. Dr. Walter J.
Swingle, of the Department of Agriculture, has brought a giant strawberry from China which beautifies
the complexion and reduces the weight. It is three times as big as the native brand and grows on a tree. The doctor is planning to develop the plant at Chico.

PLATTEKILL

Plattekill, Dec. 29.—On Monday evening the annual Christmas celebration was held at the regular meeting of the Plattekill Grange. Approximately 100 were present, including Grangers and their families. The program was in charge of the lecturer and was fitting for the occasion. A chorus of voices sang several of the beautiful old Christmas carols which very much enjoyed. The rest of the program follows:

The program closed with some fitting Christmas greetings by the Rev.
J. W. Taylor. Then followed the distribution of gifts from a beautifully trimmed Christmas tree, causing much fun and merriment. The Grange served a most satisfying and delicious supper. At the next meeting on January 5 the newly elected officers will be installed. The following committee will be in charge of refreshments:
Edward Hartung, Edna and Robert Pickens, Michael Doyle, Mr. and Mrs.
John Newirth, Edward Newirth,
Mrs. Drenth.

of many fields of beans and buckwheat as well as some loss to potatoes according to the latest revised state-federal crop report just issued from the New York State Department of Farms and Markets.

It was impossible to harvest some potatoes on account of the heavy rainfall until they had been ruined by freezing but, by far, the greatest injury was due to the loss of tubers from rot which developed with the increased moisture in the soil.

The state crop is now estimated at 29,016,000 bushels compared with an average of 35,700,000 bushels for the past five years. Last year a crop of 23,200,000 bushels was harvested and in 1924 a crop of 23,000,000 bushels. The potato acreage in New York was smaller
this year than for some time.

Among those states which compete with New York for the late potato market, Maine has a crop of 24,520,- 000 bushels compared with 23,750,- 000 bushels last year. Pennsylvania has about 22,174,000 bushels. The three states of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota have a combined crop of 23,240,000 bushels compared with 24,815,000 bushels in 1925.

More Potatoes This Year.

The total United States potato crop is now estimated at 357,800,000 bushels. Last year a crop of 222,463,000 bushels was harvested and in 1924 a crop of 121,585,000 bushels.

The same weather which injured
the potato crop to a small extent wrought great havoc with the prospects for a large crop of beans. Insects and fungi caused more than the usual amount of damage but the prospects for a good crop of mature beans were bright until about the time that the beans were ready to harvest. Then the rains started in earnest. Many fields of beans were never pulled, others were pulled and allowed to rot in the pile, some were hailed to the barn between showers
while a few were gotten under cover
before the rains started.

The revised estimates are for a state bean crop of 1,145,000 bushels, thresher measure, compared with about 1,455,000 bushels harvested a year ago. Michigan's crop is 2,000,- 000 bushels less than the 1925 crop of 8,628,000 bushels. In Idaho, the crop is estimated to be only about 999,000 bushels compared with 1,584,000 bushels last year. Colorado has only about 1,086,000 bushels. In 1925 Colorado harvested a crop of 2,240,000 bushels. In California, where the lima bean is the dominant type grown, a crop of 5,452,000 bushels is expected compared with 4,570,000 bushels harvested last year.

The total United States crop of dry beans this year is estimated at 17,000,000 bushels compared with a crop of 20,000,000 bushels harvested
a year ago.

Buckwheat Crop Suffered.

Considering the buckwheat crop conditions are different from either of the other two crops. The late summer and early fall rains which helped to injure the potato and bean crops aided in making a large growth of the buckwheat plant and gave the promise of a bountiful crop.
The producers started to harvest
their crop but many never finished.
Considerable of that cut never got dry enough to thresh and was ruined in the shock. Many fields became so soft that a large portion of the crop was never harvested. Freezing weather with snow finally put an end to any further attempts to redeem more of the crop. With these conditions in mind, the buckwheat crop which promised to be large has been reduced to 3,527,000 bushels.
Last year a crop of 4,541,000 bushels was harvested and in 1924 a crop of 4,662,000 bushels. In Pennsylvania similar conditions have prevailed so that the buckwheat crop in that state is estimated at only 3,610,000
bushels compared with 4,462,000
bushels in 1925. Since New York and Pennsylvania, normally produce about two-thirds of all the buckwheat raised in the United States,
the size of their crop has a decided influence upon the size of the United States crop which is now estimated at 12,922,000 bushels compared with 13,924,000 bushels in 1925 and 12,357,000 bushels in 1924.

Got Names and Victory

Trifles may be the "Lange-hard" were originally called "Win-still." Under the leadership of Bernard and Als, one of a prohibition called "Dambars," they came into conflict with the Vandals. The leaders of the Vandals prayed to Wotan for victory.
Wotan granted victory to three whom he should see at starlin.
Even directed Wotan to bring their women with their hair around their throats. He then turned Wotan's couch around so that when he woke at sunrise he first saw the best of the Wotan. He asked "Did you and Langehard?" "We are doing long bonds!" Wotan replied, "As they have given them the name, give them also the victory." They compared in the couching battle and were themselves known as "Langehard."

Hunters Took
Plenty of Game

Over 1,000,000 Pieces in The 1924
Game Take—Season Was Shortened By Closing Woods On Account of Forest Fire Hazard—Muskats Decreasing.

Albany, Dec. 30.—The amount of game taken in New York state in 1924, the latest year for which complete figures are available, totaled 1,592,179 pieces with the hunting season closed for two weeks in the Adirondacks and Catskills on account of exceptionally dangerous
forest fire conditions.

The increase in the take of pheasants has been continuous since 1918
and has more than doubled in the last five years.

Figures compiled by the Conservation Commission covering 34 varieties of game and fur bearing animals show increases in 15 varieties and decreases in 19 varieties. None of the decreases were large and of the 19 recorded ten, including muskrats, grouse, raccoons, jack rabbits, red
foxes, gray foxes, fox squirrels, mink, black belly plover and others showed increases in 1925 over 1922. The one animal that has shown a steady decline for the last six years is the skunk. From a take of 213,085 in 1919 the take decreased to 90,072
in 1924 and a further decrease in 1925 is foreshadowed in partial returns already received. A decline of about 3,000 in the take of deer in 1924 as compared with 1923 is accounted for by the fact that the deer
season in the Adirondacks and Catskills was cut down one-half, the woods being closed to hunting from October 21 to November 14.

"Y" Open House New Year's Day

It has been customary for a great many years to observe "Open House" on New Year's Day at the Y. M. C. A. This means that anybody, whether a member or not of the Y. M. C. A., may participate in any of the activities on this day.

The Bora's Department has arranged a heavy program for the entire morning which has already appeared in the columns of The Freeman.

The Seniors and Business Men, under the direction of the physical director, Mr. Hinde, will have a busy schedule from 1 p. m. to 5 p. m. The entire building, by all indications, will be a regular bee-hive during the day.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will be on hand in the afternoon and serve refreshments to the people.

The evening entertainment will be a most attractive one.

The Harmony Entertainers, a trio of ladies under the auspices of the White Entertainment Bureau of Boston, have been engaged. In connection with this, George Warwick will give a program "that's different."

Alice Lybarger of the Harmony Entertainers is a pianist, vocalist and entertainer well and favorably known throughout the country.

Charlotta Taylor, soprano, introduces in each program her specialty number from Victor Herbert's "Mile Modiste," singing solos while playing her own obligato on the violin. There is not a dull moment from start to finish in her whole program.

Margaret Lybarger, also a violinist and novelty instrumentalist with a fine record of successes, will also entertain.

These ladies have traveled extensively, have a wide experience and have been complimented wherever they have been, by the press.

George Warwick presents a clean wholesome program, every minute crowded with laughs. It is unique, original and different. He sketches, while the audience watches. His comedy sketches always create roars of laughter, the landscapes, marine scenes and feature pictures meet with hearty approval.

While the audience is watching the sketches, they at the same time, listen to real humor. His stories are full of fun that pleases both the young and old, grown-ups, young folks and children. He has entertained audiences in Porto Rico, Belgium, France, England, Scotland, Holland, Canada and in a great many places in this country. He has been before Kiwanis and Rotary clubs, college students, Y. M. C. A.'s, church clubs, Chautauques, Chambers of Commerce, American Legations, etc. His testimonials are legion. People attending will be admitted by tickets which are free if you haven't received any through the mail, you can get them at the office.

This entertainment is open to everybody. Children under 15 years of age must be accompanied by their parents or some other adult. If you take advantage of this opportunity you will have something to think about for many a day.

Milk Producers Face Good Year

Without Government Aid Dairymen Help Themselves—Looking Upon Industry as a Whole—Value of Cooperation Demonstrated.

New York, Dec. 30.—While farmers of the south are struggling under the burden of a surplus cotton crop and western farmers are appealing for government aid, the 40,000 members of the Dairyman's League Cooperative Association, Inc., scattered throughout the New York milk shed, have by self-help efforts just completed the best year in the history of their organization.

Not only have the members of that association had a good year, says G. W. Slocum, president of the League, in reviewing the year, but the whole industry has benefited from the influence of the giant cooperative marketing organization.

"My New Year's message to our members is one of greater optimism than ever," said Mr. Slocum today in commenting upon the progress made by the farmers through their own organization in stabilizing their industry without seeking assistance from the government.

"I doubt if there ever was a time when we could look forward to the future of the dairy business with so much hopefulness," said Mr. Slocum. "This Association has had the best year in its history. Increased efficiency within the organization has made it possible to render greater service to members and to the industry. Benefits of the pooling plan, which was adopted in 1921, are more apparent than ever.

Cooperation Proves Practical.

"The one thing our farmers have learned above everything else is how to cooperate with their brother dairyman. They are demonstrating that cooperation is not just a pleasant sounding word to cover a multitude of good intentions, but that it is a practical method of doing business. While others have talked cooperation, our farmers have cooperated. While others discussed plans, they adopted one and made it work."

More than ever before dairymen are thinking of the needs of their industry and are realizing that these needs can be met only by united action, Mr. Slocum said. He declared that $11,000,000 could be added annually to the income of the producers if they were fully united. Such saving, he said, could be effected through abolition of plant duplications, savings on freight rates, hauling and brokerage charges by efficient zoning of supplies, and without raising costs to consumers.

"For generations dairymen thought only in terms of their own individual farms," said Mr. Slocum. "Now they are beginning to think in terms of the whole industry. Problems of the industry cannot be solved by one group representing only a part of the industry, no matter how successful that particular group may be in its own affairs. Future of the industry lies in the unity the farmers are seeking. Cooperative associations are pointing the way to lead the industry away from the disaster toward which it was headed."

Company never seems to mind being dreaded.

A man's as old as he feels, but not every woman's as old as she looks to the eye.

Once there was a customer who never said to a clerk: "Is it hot enough for you, today?"

You just simply can't teach an onion to hold its breath.

"But my dear young lady," said the boss, "have you any reason for wanting to leave us?"

"Well, you see," replied the beautiful stenographer, "I'm rather wasting my time here. Why, I've been working for you over a week and nobody's even asked me out to lunch."

Yes, it is. It just struck thirteen.

Chimes Will Strike the Passing Hours

Rondout National Bank Installs Electric Clock With Chimes on Strand Front of Its Bank Building—Chimes Strike at Each Quarter-Hour.

The Rondout National Bank has erected a magnificent illuminated clock on the front of its bank building on 22 East Strand, not only adding materially to the appearance of the business section of the Strand, but providing a convenience that will undoubtedly be greatly appreciated by the general public.

The most distinctive feature of the clock, other than its unusually artistic appearance and the perfection of its construction and mechanism, is its complete set of Westminster chimes with which it is equipped.

The chimes are operated by electricity from a master clock inside the building, in the main banking room. This is an especially handsome structure of mahogany and plate glass construction with a 12 inch dial, and guaranteed to keep practically perfect time. Every minute the hands of the big clock are sent ahead one minute by electricity governed by the master clock within the connection between the two instruments being perfect and insuring correct time on the large clock on the outside as well as on the master clock inside.

The clock is attached to the front of the Rondout National Bank building at a sufficient elevation to be plainly visible from all parts of the middle section of the Strand. The clock is nine feet in height, by three in width, of bronze, copper and brass, stately bronze finish. Both faces of the clock are alike, the dials being surrounded by the words "Rondout National Bank," in large illuminated letters beautifully made up in art glass work. The dials of the clock are 30 inches in diameter, on pure white glass, with crystal glass on the outside.

President James F. Dwyer of the Rondout National Bank offers the following explanation of the beautiful Westminster chimes, consisting of five tubular chime bells, with which the clock is equipped, giving interesting information regarding the chimes themselves as well as explaining the objects which have prompted the bank to offer the public the many advantages to be derived and enjoyed from this beautiful clock.

"At the quarter, half and three-quarter hour, these chimes will ring out in various musical combinations. At a quarter past the hour, four strokes—Westminster; at half past the hour, eight strokes—Reveille; at three-quarters past the hour, 12 strokes—Cathedral peal, and on the hour, 16 strokes—Westminster; followed by the striking of the full hour, in a clear, vibrant tone.

"May we hope that the chimes will mean something to all of our people—that they will have a message for the youngster on his way to school—a thought for the business man who hustles through his day, a solace for the old, an inspiration for all.

"Every day of the week the chimes will be sounding their message—the note of warning spoken in time, the chime of rejoicing, the lament in time of sorrow. This chime will be all things to all men for it is going to belong not to us alone, but to men and women and children of our community."

The clock was manufactured by the O. B. McClintock Company of Minneapolis, Minnesota.

Governor Smith 53 Years Old

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 30 (AP)—Governor Smith is 53 years old today. Confined to the executive mansion by a cold and sore throat, the governor planned to pass the day quietly, participating tonight in a party arranged in his honor and that of Mrs. John Glynn of Brooklyn, the governor's sister. Late today the Governor may take the oath of office in preparation for the official ceremony of New Year's day.

While Mayor Walker of New York was expected to be one of the guests at the party tonight, he announced last night that he planned to return to New York today after he had conferred with the Governor on phases of the Governor's proposal for consolidation of the new Public Service Commission, with its Metropolitan Division, the New York Transit Commission.

The conference began last night soon after the Mayor's arrival and early reports indicated that the governor explained that he believed the courts would hold the present arrangement unconstitutional. The Mayor is understood to favor a New York City Board of Transportation to have charge of transit matters. The governor's proposal would combine the two commissions and eliminate one member with a considerable saving in salary.

Supervisors End Work of Session

In every way, the county has failed to provide suitable facilities for the care of the patients under treatment, does not keep the present old buildings in even an orderly good repair and their forlorn and dilapidated appearance is a disgrace to Ulster county.

As far as the plant is concerned it has not a single redeeming feature. Administration conditions, however, seem generally good; cleanliness and order were satisfactory and patients seemed comfortable and cared for although the equipment and facilities are inadequate to provide any special therapy. Filed.

Pleas for Poor Farm.
The report of inspection of Ulster county poor farm was filed from State Department of Farms and Markets, careful attention by superintendent being noted.

Highway Petitions.
A petition was received from taxpayers of Ulster, Greene and Delaware counties that a highway between Shandaken and Lexington be made next in order of convenience within the counties of Ulster and Greene. Filed.

A petition was read from the town board of Shawangunk for construction of a highway from Bruynswick to the village of Wallkill, all in the town of Shawangunk. Filed.

A petition was read from the town board of Shawangunk for construction of a county road beginning at the west end of the village of Ellenville, running through Ulster Heights to the Sullivan county line, a distance of nine miles. Filed.

A petition from taxpayers and residents of the town of Rochester that the highway from Kyserville to Allgerville, a distance of 3½ miles, be improved, was read. Supervisor Markle moved that the motion be laid on the table as the majority of the town board had not taken action in its favor. His motion was carried, ayes, 27, noes, 2. Supervisors Schantz and Thomas voting no.

Supervisor Scott moved that as there was $3,000 available from motor vehicle fees for county roads, that it be apportioned for improvement of Road 38, town of Shawangunk, that town to make provision for 25 per cent. Carried.

Bills Ordered Paid.
Bills for services of enrollment clerks employed by board of elections out of money already appropriated, two dog bills out of dog moneys and a bill of Public Accountant Mills for services for district attorney were ordered paid.

Must Correct Tax Decision.
The decision of the State Tax Department on appeal by Kingston city on equalization of 1924, was received and filed. Owing to the fact, as Clerk DeWitt stated, that he in checking up the report found it to be inaccurate, at the suggestion of the State Tax Department the said decision was not put in operation but was being held for correction by the tax department and for other adjustment. Pensions and expenditures in school supervisory districts had not been taken into consideration. On motion of Supervisor Schantz the board of supervisors of 1926 adjourned sine die.

ST. PETER'S QUINCY TO PLAY RHINEBECK.

Rhinebeck has a winning streak of ten straight games to date. However Highland had a winning streak of seven straight games until given a setback by the St. Peter's team a few weeks ago.

Manager Teator of the Rhinebeck Club will pick his lineup from such players as G. Briggs, Tromper, H. Briggs, Roone, J. Traver, G. Traver, Manager McNally of St. Peter's team will rely on his regular lineup of Van Buren, Koenig, J. Bruck, Murphy, Wenzel and P. Bruck. This game will be played under the A. A. U. Rules.

Manager McNally wants all his players ready to get the 4:40 ferry for Rhinebeck Saturday night. The biggest crowd of the season is expected to be on hand when the game starts at 8:30 o'clock.

SOME FACTS ABOUT THE ARCOIL OIL BURNER FOR HEATING HOMES AND BUILDINGS

Clean, Quiet Heat With ARCOIL OIL BURNER

Will ARCOIL heat my home as well as coal?

Yes. It will do so better, and more cleanly, and in about half the time required by a coal-burning furnace.

Is ARCOIL quiet in operation?

Yes. Quiet heat is an important feature of the ARCOIL Oil Burner. The oil is thoroughly atomized, vaporized in suspension and mixed with preheated whirling air currents before it is burnt. This ensures perfect combustion, economy, an intensely hot flame, safety and quiet.

Will ARCOIL give me a home free from grime and soot?

Yes. With ARCOIL combustion is complete and a clean, smokeless flame is produced. Deposits remain clean and white throughout the winter months when their heat is most wanted. Dirty drapes stay long unsold. Hands keep their whiteness. Woodwork, wall paper and paint keep their freshness. Rugs no longer get drab and dusty. Dusting and general house-cleaning will be lessened.

Is there any smell of gas or oil in the home that uses ARCOIL?

No, not the slightest trace.

Is ARCOIL more economical than coal?

Yes. ARCOIL matches coal bill with oil and shows a saving of from 10 to 30 per cent.

What makes ARCOIL more economical?

The oil furnace burns 24 hours a day from October to May—ARCOIL burns only when it is needed.

Engineers state that the efficiency of the domestic oil furnace varies from 80% to 85%, compared to 55% for ARCOIL.

ARCOIL creates no soot. This eliminates another great source of heat waste.

Figures from the Institute of Marine Engineers show that 1% of an inch of ash on the fire surface of a boiler causes a wastage of over 30% of the heat supplied by coal.

Add to this all the conveniences in the elimination of waste, soot, labor, constant cleaning bills, and the fact that ARCOIL means a clean and dust-free cellar and so adds room to your house.

Will ARCOIL keep my home at the right temperature without any trouble on my part?

Yes. ARCOIL starts automatically whenever the temperature of the house falls and stops as soon as the temperature rises to the right point. With ARCOIL the temperature of your house will never vary more than two degrees.

Will ARCOIL keep my home at whatever temperature I wish?

Yes. Just turn the control in the living room to whatever temperature you wish and from that moment you can forget your heating troubles. ARCOIL will keep your house at that temperature just as long as you keep it supplied with fuel and electricity.

Has ARCOIL eliminated troublesome clocks?

Yes. Clocks, and timing devices are entirely done away with.

What kind of oil does ARCOIL burn?

Furnace oil, coal oil, kerosene, or any distillate of 28° Baume or lighter.

All the large Oil Companies sell oil fuel and deliver it to your home on 24 hours' notice or less. They are eager to contract for your winter's supply and will guarantee delivery at a uniform price.

How does oil consumption compare with coal?

About 130 gallons are equivalent to a ton of the best anthracite.

If you used 10 tons of coal last winter, you will use about 1,300 gallons of oil.

How much does fuel oil cost a gallon?

7c to 11c depending on the quantity purchased and the distance to the nearest oil station.

Is it necessary to have an oil tank in the basement?

No. The oil tank is usually placed underground, outside the house.

Can the fuel tank be placed outdoors above the ground?

Yes in many localities but local fire laws should be investigated. When the tank is buried, must it be enclosed in cement?

A cement base is necessary only when the ground is soft and cement is needed to prevent the tank settling.

How is the fuel tank filled?

Through a hose from a tank wagon. The fuel storage tank is installed with a fill pipe leading to the curb or other spot easily accessible to the tank truck.

Can I always determine how much oil is in the fuel tank?

Yes. All tanks are furnished with an oil indicator or measuring stick. Are all tanks vented to the outside?

Why?

Yes. Air vent pipe permits air to escape from the tank while being filled.

Would there be any danger if the oil heating machine failed to function properly?

No. ARCOIL is fully protected by simple, positive safety devices which control both oil and electricity. Ask your ARCOIL dealer to explain how these safety devices work—you will find it interesting.

Can ARCOIL machines be used for both large and small heating plants?

Yes. ARCOIL Oil Burners have an adjustment both for air and oil. This makes it possible for the standard ARCOIL burner to take care of both large and small plants.

Will any change be needed in my furnace or heating system before ARCOIL can be installed?

No. All parts: furnace, radiators, pipes, all remain unchanged.

Who installs ARCOIL?

The dealer who sells you the ARCOIL Oil Burner also installs it for you, complete and ready for you to use.

If my ARCOIL needs service attention, how long will it be before an ARCOIL engineer is at my house?

Day and night ARCOIL heat experts are at your call. Phone your dealer and an engineer will come to your house. This is a part of ARCOIL service and a guarantee of many years of satisfactory heating.

Will ARCOIL lengthen the life of my furnace?

Yes. And it will eliminate the cost and annoyance of replacing grates, bars, firebox, ashpit doors, etc., so often necessary with the coal-burning furnace.

How long will ARCOIL last?

The ARCOIL burner is practically indestructible and should last a lifetime.

How much does the pilot light require?

When the burner is installed, ARCOIL engineers adjust the pilot light to burn one cubic foot of gas every 20 minutes.

How much electricity does ARCOIL use?

When operating ARCOIL consumes 200 watts an hour. ARCOIL only needs to run six hours a day on an average to keep the house at the right temperature. Therefore, ARCOIL consumes only 1.2 kilowatts a day.

Does the ARCOIL Oil Burner interfere with radio reception?

No. ARCOIL uses a reputation induction motor and gas ignition. This is the only type of electrical system that will not, and cannot, interfere with your own or your neighbor's radio.

Is ARCOIL fully guaranteed?

Yes.

1. The manufacturer's guarantee that every ARCOIL installation that has been inspected by their representative and passed by their engineering department will last the better to its rated capacity.

2. The manufacturer's also guarantee to supply free of charge any part or parts of the ARCOIL Oil Burner that may become defective within a period of one year from the date of installation. This guarantee does not apply to the electric motor, or to such parts that show obvious signs of abuse.

Reis-Belcher.
St. Peter's Church was the scene on Wednesday morning at half after nine o'clock of a charming Christmas-side wedding, when Miss Gertrude Belcher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Phillip Belcher, was united in marriage to Mr. Joseph Reis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Reis, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. John P. Neumann. The wedding march and organ music during the ceremony was rendered by Miss Gertrude Reis, aunt of the bride, while Miss Marie Keister, cousin of the bride, sang during the ceremony. The church was decorated for the Christmas festival. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a beautiful gown of white satin with veil caught with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and hyacinths. The maid of honor was Miss Marie Belcher, sister of the groom, whose gown was of green beaded georgette and who wore an orchid picture hat and carried orchid colored sweet peas. Theodore Reis acted as his brother's best man. The ushers were P. Joseph Belcher and Otis V. Atkins. Following the ceremony a reception was held at St. Peter's Hall which was also handsomely decorated. Covers were laid for some fifty guests at the collation. Mr. and Mrs. Reis, on their return from a southern wedding journey will make their home at 33 Foxhall avenue, this city.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Dec. 30 (AP)—Speculative confidence in the stock market apparently was restored by yesterday's sharp rise in prices, which was resumed today under the leadership of the high grade railroad shares although the usual year end shifting of speculative accounts imparted some irregularity to the industrial group. The advance took place in the face of an increase in the call money rate from 5 1/2 to 6 per cent which followed the calling of about $40,000,000 in loans.

Refusal of the Mexican government to grant an extension of time in the new oil regulations which go into effect the first of the year had little effect on the general list, although it probably insured the selling of shares of some of the oil and copper companies which have large property south of the Rio Grande. Offerings of these issues were well absorbed, and the declines, as usual, were moderate.

Rails attracted a strong investment demand under the leadership of Atchison, which moved up over 3 points to around 170 on a revival of rumors concerning a special dividend distribution at next month's meeting of the directors. Union Pacific, "Nickel Plate", Chicago and Northwestern and Texas and Pacific also recorded good gains.

Universal Pipe common was bid up to a new high level for the year on buying credited to George Whelan, tobacco magnate, who was reported to be interested in a merger of that and other companies. Bloomingdale Brothers and American Home Products also touched new high levels. Merchandising issues continued to reflect reports of record breaking holiday earnings.

Read Service to World.

And he gave it for his opinion, "that whoever could make two ears of corn, or two blades of grain, to grow upon a spot of ground where only one grew before, would deserve better of mankind, and do more essential service to his country, than the whole race of politicians put together."—Smith.

DAVIDY DAIRY*CORN AND OATS GOOD COW FEED

Current prices of feeds indicate that corn and oats should again be used as extensively as possible in mixing dairy rations this fall, says C. S. Rhode, dairy extension specialist of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois. He points out, however, that corn and oats alone do not furnish the required amount of protein. Unless this deficiency of protein is supplied by adding other feeds to the grain ration, milk and butterfat production will fall off and the returns will be lowered, he said. An adequate supply of protein, together with the cost of the ration, are the factors that should be considered by dairymen who are interested in producing efficiently, he added.

At present prices, cottonseed meal is the cheapest source of protein, according to Rhode. With corn at 70 cents a bushel, choice cottonseed meal will furnish a pound of digestible protein for 3.5 cents. Oil meal will do the same thing for 6.1 cents and wheat bran will do the job for 5.5 cents. Of course, the dairymen who is growing and feeding liberal amounts of legume hay will not have to buy as much high protein concentrates as the dairymen who is using non-legume roughages.

One good grain mixture to feed when silage and legume hay are being fed as roughage can be made from 500 pounds of ground corn, 200 pounds of ground oats and 100 pounds of cottonseed meal. A second grain mixture that makes a good one to feed with silage and legume hay can be mixed up at the rate of 500 pounds of ground corn, 300 pounds of ground oats, and 100 pounds each of wheat bran and cottonseed meal.

When no legume hay is being fed, a good grain mixture to use is composed of 100 pounds each of ground corn and ground oats, 125 pounds of cottonseed meal and 175 pounds of wheat bran. A second grain mixture that can be used when no legume hay is fed is composed of 100 pounds each of ground corn, wheat bran and oil meal and 50 pounds of cottonseed meal. If there is no silage in either of these two rations, the cottonseed meal should be replaced with oil meal at the rate of 150 pounds of oil meal for each 100 pounds of cottonseed meal.

When the roughage consists of legumes only a good grain mixture can be made by mixing 600 pounds of ground corn, 300 pounds of ground oats and 100 pounds of oil meal or ground soy beans. A second grain mixture that makes a good one to feed when the roughage consists only of legumes can be made from 200 pounds of ground corn and 100 pounds of wheat bran.

These grain mixtures should be fed at the rate of 2 1/2 pounds for each gallon of milk produced daily. The amount should be increased to 3 1/2 pounds for Jerseys and Guernseys producing more than 25 pounds daily.

Comfortable Stable Is First Step in Dairying

About one-half of a cow's feed is used for the production of heat and energy. When she has to roam around on a bleak hillside or in a cold, barren pasture, she loses more heat from her body than if she were protected by buildings or kept in a sanitary, well ventilated barn. Milk production cannot be expected to keep up, no matter how well a cow is fed, unless she is also protected from the weather.

A comfortable barn is one of the first steps in successful and profitable dairying. Water supply is one of the first essentials in maintaining a good flow of milk in the dairy herd. Arrangements should be made so that the cows can drink frequently, and that the water will at least have the chill taken off from it instead of being only slightly above the freezing temperature.

Make Choicest Veal by Allowing Calf With Dam

Probably the choicest veal is made by allowing the calf to run with its dam. This is nature's way, but for the dairymen it is not practical and absolutely not profitable. In fact this method is inadvisable only with the special beef breeds where cattle can be kept on the range or other land that it is not practical to till. The dairymen must get more for the use of his cow than the growth of the calf. He cannot afford to allow the calf to suck the cow until it is fattened, because this method gets the cow into bad habits and she will not produce as much milk after the calf is fattened as she will if milked from the beginning.

Feeding Dry Cows

Feed the dry cows liberally. Grain fed to cows before breeding will return more profit than at any other time. Especially is this true if the cow is in moderate to this flesh. The Minnesota station found a 30 per cent increase in the following year's milk flow with liberal feeding while dry. Cows should not get about the same ration as milking cows up until about a week before calving, when corn or heavy feeds should be left out.
